

Alpha & Omega

Issue #36. 1 January 2003

Alpha & Omega is the official 'zine of the Miller Number Custodian. Published by: Tom Howell, 365 Storm King Road, Port Angeles, WA 98363. 360-928-9698 (voice). 360-928-9698 (fax). off-the-shelf@olympus.net

Subs are $.75 (USA), $1.00 (Canada), $1.50 (overseas) per issue. Back issues are not currently available; perhaps in future.

The Miller Number Status

As you probably already know, I volunteered for this job – primarily, so I could get Miller Numbers for my own games. Having taken on the job, I've been trying to resolve outstanding variant Diplomacy games: those game starts announced in past issues of A&O with no subsequent game end announcement. I plan to report a final status for all game starts reported in past issues of A&O.

I now have every game start from A&O #32 through A&O #36 (yes, this issue) in a database. Also in the database are unfinished games from A&O #30 & #31. I listed the unfinished games as of A&O #35 and have been trying to resolve them. There are fifteen games which I have confirmed as being actively played. Many of the game end reports appearing herein I recovered from my own archives of 'zines I've received in the last ten years. I have several folks researching some of the remaining outstanding games, and have a fair number which I have not begun to track down. I'll start working on the latter soon with hopes to close them out in A&O #37. Unfortunately, as shown below, there have been a large number of abandoned games. Also included below is a list of all games who's status I do not know or still need help with. That list includes games which some of you may be working on for me. Please consider this a gentle reminder to send the final game report to me. Thanks!

As I said when Lee was looking for a replacement MNC, data sitting in an old fashioned file cabinet is effectively useless, as hardly anyone has the time to paw through the files. There is also the issue of whether anyone with the interest and time has access to the few copies of back issues of A&O that do exist. I suggested to Jim Burgess that we put Miller Number Data on the Diplomatic Pouch Internet site, <http://devel.diplom.org/DipPouch>. His response was that he thought it appropriate and suggested posting A&O much as he does TAP. My problem with this is that while it would make the raw data accessible to anyone who is interested (AND has Internet access), the information contained therein is only marginally more accessible than it would be on hard copy; therefore, not practically useful. I've been putting the data into a MySQL database and I've built a PHP page which allows access to the game starts and end reports in the database. The database contains the following fields:

Game Name (nickname)

Miller Number

Variant

Zine

GM

whether Gunboat style

A&O issue number containing game start announcement

A&O issue number containing game end announcement status (ongoing, orphan, abandoned, complete, etc.)

start date *

end date * * dates will not be available for most historical games (unless someone helps look them up).

Players' names

Power (or position) played turn player started

turn player left game

player's result (win, draw, survive, etc.)

Changes in 'zine and GM.

Game report Footnotes

Supply center history, including position, turn, and supply center count (but not which centers were held)

Whether any power played short (or over - hey! it's been reported!)

I see three issues to be addressed before putting Diplomacy Variant statistics on an Internet site:

- 1 Would anyone be interested, and would it be useful? If the answer here is "no", then there is no point in addressing the other two issues. If the answer to this is "no", I don't see the point in posting copies of A&O on the 'net. Nor even the point of collecting game data and printing A&O. On the other hand, if the answer is "yes", then the second issue to address would be technical items and I'd like some input on the third issue.
- 2 The technical issues include (and are probably not limited to) the availability of disc space on the Dip Pouch web site, and how comfortable David Kovar is with installing MySQL and PHP on the server. David?
- 3 What types of queries would folks be interested in and find useful? In addition to the standard game-end stats, some queries which immediately occur to me include:
 - ◆ What variants have an individual played or GMed?
 - ◆ What 'zines or GMs have an individual played in/under?
 - ◆ What results have an individual player achieved?
 - ◆ Who has played a particular variant?
 - ◆ How many times have two given players played in the same game? Which variants?
 - ◆ When (over what time period) did a given player participate in the hobby (by actively playing)?
 - ◆ Of course, there's the traditional stats such as, "Which powers tend to do better/worse in any given variant?"

As you can see, there are lots of possibilities. If this is worth doing, I'd like your help with brainstorming ways to look at the data. The site currently consists of game reports and listings by variant, GM, 'zine, and year. But which of the above – or other – queries should be added?

Please help me out and let me know what you think and want to see!

Oh, yeah! Trades. I've sent this issue to everyone Lee told me he was trading with. He says trades were on an all for all basis, which is fine with me, but you'll be on the short end of the stick. If I don't receive any issues of your 'zine by the time I get A&O #37 ready, I'll assume you no longer want to trade; although, a note to that effect would be appreciated. I am also honoring Lee's subscription balances – despite not having received any funds therefore. Using the sub amounts cited at the top of page 1, I converted his last issue numbers to credit balances, which is how I handle these matters.

As for back issues, when Dan and Lee send me the promised Miller Number Custodian materials, which supposedly contain master copies for issues prior to #30, I'll make them available at cost.

If anyone wishes to submit articles on variants, I will include them in future issues of A&O.

I have neither a final nor a current status for the following games. (Actually, there are a few exceptions to that sweeping statement.) I have made inquiries about some of them. I may have received some information about them which is not reflected here. I may not have inquired yet at the obvious sources. If any of that applies to you, no oversight or slight was intended: I simply haven't gotten to it yet. Please consider this listing a gentle request to send me what you may know about the listed games; or, if you already have, please remind me that I already have it... somewhere, here on my desktop (either the conceptual, computer version, or the real, physically chaotic one).

1 Cal White is trying to restart these games in The Canadian Diplomat. However, he does not know who all the gunboat players were. If you were in any of them, please contact Cal, even if only to tell him that you were playing, and don't want to continue. 2 transferred to Metamorphosis, Wang on turn 6; 3 transferred to Metamorphosis, Wang on turn 15; 4 transferred to Akrasia, Reynolds on turn 12; 5 transferred to ishkibibble, Reynolds on turn 32; 6 transferred to ishkibibble, Reynolds on turn 30.

If you know of any games not played during the last two years, please let me know.

NAVb News

The North American Variant Bank (NAVb) has merged with the United Kingdom Variant Bank (UKVB) to form the Variant Bank. Most of this material is on a web site at <<http://www.diplomacy-archive.com>>. If you have questions or variant rules to contribute, visit the web site to send an e-mail to Steven Agar, the Variant Bank Custodian and site maintainer. Stephen reports that he has most of the rules on hand. However, some of the copies he has are not good enough for OCR scanning, therefore require time-consuming retying (into a computer). If you have a good quality copy of any of the rules not posted, or can donate some time to retype some of those rules, please e-mail Stephen. He says, "I will refund actual postage, no matter how much - but it would be best to email me first to make sure I don't already have them."
